A FOCUS ON MENTAL HEALTH

Keynote Speaker
Lucy Winer

Lucy Winer has been directing and producing award-winning documentaries for over 30 years. "Although we did appear in festivals

[for our documentary Kings Park], and we did get some wonderful reviews, it right away became apparent that the biggest demand for the film was going to come from the world of mental health," Winer commented to PBS. "This is a huge world and incorporates many different audiences, including consumers, advocacy groups, mental health professionals at every level, policy makers, universities and colleges, hospitals and clinics, government agencies and the criminal justice system. Because the history of mental health care has been so ignored, there's a real passion among all these groups to learn about the past and see how this history has impacted the crisis in mental health care that we face today."
