

George Bilyk
Health Policy Director, Mental Health
Johnson & Johnson Healthcare Systems

George Bilyk is currently the Director of Health Policy at Johnson & Johnson Health Care Systems. His main responsibilities include the analysis of the health care environment and the development of mental health policy alternatives focused on improving patient access in multiple settings, including corrections. He partners with stakeholders to help reduce the overrepresentation of patients that suffer from serious mental illness in jails.

George has worked for Johnson & Johnson within the pharmaceutical sector (Janssen) for 38 years and led several Finance departments as Controller. In addition to Finance, he has held leadership positions in the Government, Reimbursement, Channel Marketing, and Health Policy areas of Johnson & Johnson. George graduated from Rutgers University and received his MBA at the Rutgers Graduate School of Management.
